VALUABLE PROPERTY RECORD

You should keep a record of your valuable items for insurance purposes. As you mark your valuables, you should enter the item description, brand, model number, and serial number on the list. A copy of this list should be kept in a secure place. DO NOT send one to the police. If your home is burglarized, you can then compare your list with the missing items and report them to the police along with your serial numbers. The stolen items can then be entered into national and local law enforcement computers, so they can be checked against stolen records if they are recovered. Engraving your driver's license number on your valuables (ie. GA123456789) assists in identifying the rightful owner.
